The Impact of Generational Diversity on Social Work Practice: From Baby Boomers to Millennials

Karen Aderer, LMSW

USM School of Social Work

Understanding the distinctly different core value systems and attitudes of each generation is critical for all practitioners. Insight into "generational thinking" is critical in understanding client behavior patterns and the development of case and treatment plans. During this session Ms. Aderer will:

- Define differences in attitudes, communication styles, & values of the Traditionalists, Baby Boomers, Generation Xers and Millennials.
- Define the impact of generational issues on social work practice.
- Explain ways generational differences impact recruitment, hiring and retention in your agency.
- Identify strategies for setting expectations, supervising and giving feedback to Millennial staff members.

9:30 - 10:00 a.m. Break & Vendor Networking

10:00 - Noon

Pimp My Life - The Scope of Juvenile Sex Trafficking in America

Elizabeth Scaife, BA, Director of Training, Shared Hope International

Yes, Juvenile sexual trafficking is a multi-million dollar industry that exploits and abuses thousands of juveniles and adolescents across America. Identifying the scope of this epidemic and developing strategies to stop the abuse and destruction of young lives is a priority. During this program Ms. Scaife will:

- Identify potential victims from the four primary manifestations of domestic minor sex trafficking
- Identify risk factors commonly associated with trafficking victims.
- Identify three categories of traffickers and their methods of recruitment and grooming
- Identify strategies for stopping the abuse and reclaiming shattered adolescent lives

Noon - 1:15 p.m. Lunch on your own

1:15 - 2:15 p.m.

Impact of Trauma on Sexually Exploited Youth Elizabeth Scaife, BA, Director of Training, Shared Hope International

When we interact with a sexual trafficking victim it is critical to communicate with them in a manner that begins to build trust and opens the door to leading them to safety and treatment. During this program Ms. Scaife will:

- Identify symptoms and behaviors of complex trauma
- Define and explain the implementation of trauma-informed and strength-based practices while interacting with exploited and abused youth

2:15 - 2:30 p.m. Break & Vendor Networking

2:30 - 4:30 p.m.

Social Work Practice, Social Media & the Electronic World: Ethical Issues and Conflicts Karen Aderer, LMSW USM School of Social Work

The "Electronic World" is woven into every element of our professional and private lives. As professionals we must take care and clearly create appropriate "Electronic Boundaries" to protect our professional integrity, client confidentiality and security. During this session we will:

- Define the current forms of social media being used by both practitioners and clients building culturally diverse institutions

- Explain ways one's online presence complements or conflicts with one's professional presence
- Define issues pertaining to use of social media and confidentiality.
- Define potential boundary issues and dual relationships as they relate to social media
- Clarify strategies to protect clients and practitioners
